PD MOVIE

REMOTE AIR FOLLOW FOCUS SYSTEM

Two things were forefront in the design of the Remote Air; versatility and ease of use. The dual motor system mounts easily on any professional movie camera, and the automatic calibration system takes mere seconds to sync up. Thanks to the 20-channel signal range and the 2.4G signal strength, the Remote Air has the technological capabilities to be used anywhere from a studio shoot to a location shoot out in an open field without having to worry about loss of control.

The controllers themselves are as simple as turning two dials, and both feature an OLED display showing receiver channel, signal strength, and battery life so that you can check your system effortlessly and instantly. Plus, the whole system comes with its own personal carrying case making it a great on-the-go addition to your film team.

PD MOVIE FEATURES

RANGE UP TO 300 FEET

2.4 DIGITAL WIRELESS

20 CHANNEL SIGNAL RANGE

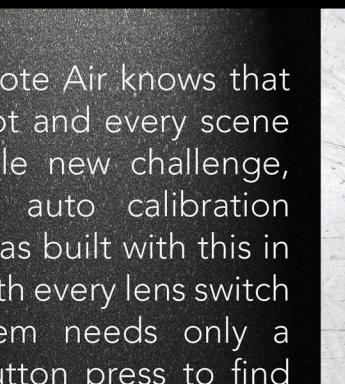

The PD Movie Remote Air gives you hassle free operation at 300 feet line of site. So if you are using a jib or remote camera set up you won't have to worry about losing precise camera lens control.

PD Movie Remote Air operates in the 2.4 GHz range, far from TV and DTV interference.

Thanks to the 20-channel signal range and the 2.4G signal strength, the Remote Air has the technological capabilities to be used anywhere from a studio shoot to a location shoot out in an open field without having to worry about loss of control.

4 ALL-IN-ONE VERSIONS AVAILABLE

PD Movie Remote Air comes in 4 versions to meet your shooting requirements. This includes a High Torque motor version for use with zoom control or stiff lenses.

The Remote Air knows that every shot and every scene is a whole new challenge, and the auto calibration system was built with this in mind. With every lens switch the system needs only a single button press to find both the beginning and the ending of the adjustment range, a process that takes mere seconds. One button press and you're ready to go once again.

PD Movie Remote Air is made of durable all metal construction. It has been designed and crafted to be a professional grade production tool.

BRAD LYNCH

PRINCIPAL

As the Principal of First Continental Realty with over twenty years of experience in the Houston Real Estate Market, Brad is recognized industry wide as an outstanding Real Estate professional.

With eleven of those years as a Landlords' Representative working for Moody Rambin, Cushman & Wakefield and Metro National, Brad has developed a vast knowledge of office leasing transactions from both the tenant and landlords perspective. That experience will provide you a complete understanding of your options in the real estate decision making process whether you are approaching renewal, expansion of your current space or just beginning to search for a new office location.

With over six hundred transactions to date, Brad looks forward to the opportunity to provide you and your company outstanding representation.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

+ Why should my company engage an experienced real estate advisor?

- Why do you recommend an office tenant sign a letter of representation with one specific advisor?

Signing a letter of representation with a licensed agent or broker ensures that you will have one advisor working hard to represent your company in the marketplace. He or she will take ownership of your company's needs and generate a competitive process among landlords for your company's lease. Talking to several brokers simultaneously, without committing to work with anyone specifically, does not provide any one person with an incentive to look out for your company's best interests.

+ How are First Continental Realty's advisors compensated for their time representing my company?

+ What is a mandate letter? What do I agree to within it?

+ How large does my company have to be before we should engage the services of First Continental Realty?

+ Can First Continental Realty assist me with my company's renewal?

+ How does Tenant Representation work?

+ How much time should I allow for the process of looking for new space?

Crumb Rubber fields an emerging mass tort?

November 1, 2016 / Ted Tredennick Tags: Environmental

Bloomberg News recently interviewed my law partner Doug Daniels and I for an article entitled "Playing Fields and Cancer – An Emerging Mass Tort?" The article examines whether crumb rubber synthetic playing fields could be the next mass tort considering the effects these fields have on public health and the environment. The chances are good these fields become vulnerable to litigation, public scrutiny, and increased government oversight and regulation.

As a coincidence, this past weekend I witnessed a crumb rubber field being installed by RS Global, a company based in Dallas, Texas. Field Turf provide the materials while RS Global performed the actual installation. It was for a local private school in Houston. My kids were playing on the adjacent grass fields during the installation. I could see heat waves rising above the field as the day was sunny and in the mid-80s.

WHO WE ARE

Williamsburg Enterprises Limited ("Williamsburg") is a closely held investment company that was founded to manage the assets of a private local family. While the firm still operates as a family office, it has since grown to sponsor investment partnerships that include other family offices and private investors.

WHY WE ARE DIFFERENT

We conduct business the "old fashioned way". We believe that you are only as good as your word, and that a handshake is stronger than any contract. The company holds its partners in the highest regard, and is humbled by their faith and trust in us.

OUR FOCUS

Since 2010, we have invested in over one hundred unique opportunities across the United States. Our main areas of focus are real estate, private equity, and venture capital. We frequently invest alongside our existing partners, and with proven leaders who have demonstrated an ability to excel in their respective fields.

While the majority of the company's holdings are located in Texas, we continuously evaluate opportunities in other states.
